

Milestone | BART Ridership Analysis

- All of your answers should be typed or pasted into the grey boxes.
- Questions with grey answer boxes expect a specific answer. Once you input the correct answer, the question number box will change from blue to green.
- Questions with yellow answer boxes are free-response questions. There will be no change in the question number boxes (in blue), regardless of your answer.
- Hover your cursor over the blue hint box to get a helpful hint!

Part 1: Feature Engineering

For all the questions below, you'll refer to the dataset to the right. The table is named BART_Rides.

In the Month column, extract the month from each date.

Hint!

In the DayOfWeek column, extract the day of the week from each date. Note: It will make it easier later in the Milestone if you have Monday = 1, Sunday = 7.

Hint!

In the YellowLine column, we want to capture whether or not a station is on the Yellow Line. We need to do this in two steps: first isolate the relevant letter from the Lines column and then classify the stations based on whether they belong to the Yellow

In the FirstLetter column, extract the first letter from the Lines column. e.g. "YO" should output "Y".

Hint!

In the YellowLine column, extract whether or not a station is on the Yellow Line: "Yes" if it is on the Yellow Line, and "No" if it is not. Based on the Data Dictionary, a station is on the Yellow line if the first letter of the Lines string is a Y.

Hint!

Prompt ChatGPT: Provide the Excel IF function to check if the first letter of a string is 'Y' and return 'Yes' if true, and 'No' if false. Explain each part of the formula to me.

Part 2: Key Ridership Metrics

Use the SUM() function and the Total Passengers column to find out how many total passengers rode BART in all of 2021. This is the baseline ridership metric.

24583309

How many total passengers rode during a weekday?

20281852

Hint!

7

What proportion of all passengers rode the BART on the weekday? Remember: The proportion is calculated by dividing the total number of passengers who rode on a weekday by the total number of passengers who rode on the BART.

83%

What proportion of all passengers rode the BART on the weekend?

17%

How many passengers rode on the Yellow Line?

19425399

Hint!

10

What proportion of all passengers ended on a station on the Yellow Line? Remember: The proportion is calculated by dividing the total number of passengers who rode on a Yellow Line by the total number of passengers who rode on the BART.

79%

Part 3: Making Data-Driven Decisions

11

What might the difference in ridership on the weekdays versus the weekends suggest about commuter behavior? Based on your analysis, how should BART adjust its services to optimize ridership for both weekdays and weekends?

Prompt ChatGPT: I found that XX% of BART passengers ride on the weekday and XX% ride on the weekend. What kind of factors should I be looking at to understand why these differences exist, and how can BART best adjust services for these trends?

The difference between weekday and weekend ridership shows that BART usage in 2021 mainly came from commuting and work-related trips rather than leisure activities. Higher ridership on weekdays means that riders mostly used BART during the workweek, while weekend use was lower. Given this pattern, BART should increase service frequency and capacity during peak weekday hours to meet commuter demand. On weekends, service could be adjusted to run fewer trains or have specific schedules that fit leisure travel and special events, helping to use resources more effectively.

Given that the vast majority of BART passengers use the Yellow Line, what other types of data would you want to know about the Yellow Line in order to evaluate its impact on overall system efficiency and rider experience? How could this additional data help inform decisions about expanding or reducing Yellow Line service?

While total passenger counts on the Yellow Line give a good overview, more data would help explain why riders use this line and how it works. Information like time-of-day ridership, on-time performance, crowding levels, and transfer activity would provide a better understanding of rider behavior and service efficiency. Station-level data along the Yellow Line would also highlight specific bottlenecks or high-demand areas. This would allow BART to make better decisions about scheduling, capacity, and infrastructure upgrades.

LevelUp: Downtown Ridership
13	LevelUp (Optional): In the Downtown column, extract whether or not a station is one of the four stations in downtown San Francisco: EM, MT, PL, CC: "Yes" if it is one of those stations, "No" if it is not.
14	How many total passengers traveled through the downtown San Francisco stations?	6932181
15	What proportion of all passengers traveled through a downtown station?	28.2%
16	How does the ridership at downtown stations compare to non-downtown stations in terms of total passenger volume? What insights can we gain from this comparison to inform service scheduling and station prioritization?

Comparing downtown and non-downtown ridership shows how travel demand spreads across the BART system. If downtown stations represent a large share of total ridership, this indicates a strong need for access to business and job centers. It also emphasizes the need for reliable and frequent service in these areas. On the other hand, if non-downtown ridership accounts for a bigger portion overall, BART may need to adjust its resources. This could involve improving feeder routes, transfers, and service reliability outside the urban center. This comparison ensures that service planning reflects where riders actually travel, rather than just where demand is thought to be the highest.
